

All About Supplement Quality

It's no secret that there are certain risks with purchasing anything online. From shipping delays to incomplete orders, there are a lot of factors that can cause your supplement order to not be what you need, when you need it. Online retailers, like Amazon, have been featured in the news with rising frequency for counterfeit products, imitation merchants, and scams. As a result of this phenomenon, it has become more important than ever for both practitioners and patients to be aware of where they are purchasing supplements online.

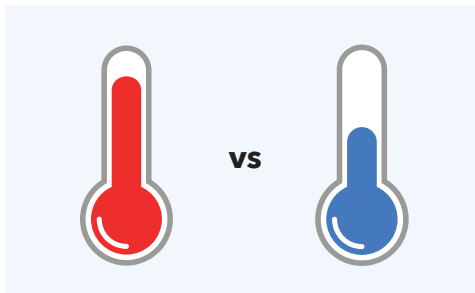

Product Verification

With Wellevate, inventory is verified for authenticity and is quality-tested.

Inventory Specialization

Wellevate focuses only on natural health products, making vitamins and supplements our top priority.

Warehouse Conditions

Inventory is always stored in temperature controlled environments in the Wellevate distribution centers.

Powered by Practitioners

Wellevate is powered by Emerson Ecologics, a supplement distributor that has been serving practitioners for 40 years.

wellevate®

wellevate.me/michelle-parsons

855.935.5382

support@wellevate.me

Quality with Wellevate

Practitioners want to make sure that fresh, high-quality, and timely supplement orders are the one's getting to their patients' door. This is why your practitioner trusts Wellevate. You can rest easy knowing that your treatment plan has been properly stored in temperature-controlled environments, filtered for expired products, and will be there when you need it.